Topic: GENDER DISPARITY AND WOMEN'S RIGHTS

ONE BY

what is disparity in gender?

Gender inequality is the social process by which men and women are not treated as equals. The treatment may arise from distinctions regarding biology, psychology, or cultural norms. Some of these distinctions are empirically-grounded while others appear to be socially-conclustrated.

root cause of gender disparit

The root cause of gender inequality is the role and place which society assigns to women.

Many cultures practice particically, in which a married couple lives near or with the hubsaids a parents. When a versus a pisk married, whe essentially causes to be a member of the birth make and print he hubsaids a family. Under this system, parents potentially reap, and education because to be a made obscarios because to will remain a part of their family, whereas a doughter will physically and financially leaves the household upon married for family, whereas a doughter will physically and financially leaves the household upon married framity and the consideration of the control of the comparison of the control of the control

types of gender disparity

1. Uneven access to education

Around the world, women still have less access to education than men. X of young women between 15-24 will not finish privary school. That group makes up 56% of the people not completing that basic education. Of all the Illierate people in the world, X are women. When gids are not educated on the same level as boys, it has a huge effect on their future and the kinds of opportunities they II get.

Only 6 countries in the world give women the same legal work rights as men. In fact, most economies give women only 5t the rights of men. Studies show that if employment became a more even playing field, it has a positive domino effect on other areas prone to gender inequality.

One of the causes for gender inequality within employment is the division of jobs. In most societies, there's an Inherent belief that men are simply better equipped to handle cortain jobs. Most of the thine, those are the jobs that pay the best. This discrimination results in lower income for women. Women also take on the primary responsibility for unpaid labor, so even as they participate in the paid workforce, they have extra work that never gets recognized financially.

According to research from the World Bank, over one billion women don have legal proteion against demands: execut violence or dementic economic violence. Both have a significant impact on xomen's ability to trivie and live in freadom. In many countries, there's also a lack of legal protections against hariassment in the workplace, at school, and in public These places become unaife and without protection, women frequently have to make decisions that compromise and limit their goals.

In addition to limited access to contraception, women overall receive lower-quality medical care than men. This is linked to other gender inequality reasons such as a lack of education and job opportunities, which results in more women being in poverty. They are less likely to diseases that affect women more than men, such as autoimmu disorders and chronic pain conditions. Many women also experience discrimination and dismissal from their doctors, broadening the gender gap in healthcare quality
